Rev. Chinn Will Retire As Rector

REV. AUSTIN B. CHINN, for the past 12 years rector of All Saints' church, will retire from this church and from active parochial work on March 1, 1937, he announced at a vestry meeting last Saturday. The vestry received the announcement with sincere regret. The Chinns are still uncertain as to their future plans, and the vestry has not decided what steps to take to replace Mr. Chinn, but the generous advance notification will provide time for the solution of this problem.

Mr. Chinn has been active in the Episcopalian ministry for 43 years, beginning in a country parish in Virginia, in which state he was born and grew to manhood. From rural Virginia he went to a parish in the heart of Chicago, later lived and worked in Kentucky. Twenty-nine years ago he and Mrs. Chinn came to California, immediately following their marriage, settling first in Menlo Park. They have lived in California continuously since then, and since Jan. 1, 1924, in Carmel. Both Mr. and Mrs. Chinn have been community leaders, popular not only with the members of their parish, but throughout the village.

Judge Ross Weds Society Couple

As one of his first official acts following his appointment last Wednesday night, City Judge Charles P. Ross performed the marriage ceremony which united two prominent San Franciscans, Mrs. Evelyn Millar Hoyle, and Charles Schlessinger, last Sunday at the Charles Crocker home in Pebble Beach. A small group of relatives and intimate friends was present, and Mrs. Anna B. Crocker and Charles Schlessinger Jr., signed the register as witnesses. Following the ceremoney the wedding party was entertained with a champagne dinner at Peter Pan Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Schlessinger left for Coronado for the honeymoon, and will reside in San Francisco.

Wisharts See East for First Time in 25 Years

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wishart returned Tuesday mornig after a 24-day trip to the eastern coast, during which they visited friends and relatives at many points en route. Mrs. Wishart had not been east for 25 years, and it was 35 years for Mr. Wishart. The trip was by motor, and the party, which also included young Billy Wishart and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Selgrath of San Jose, traveled more than 10,000 miles. The chief objective was the national bakers' convention at Atlantic City, which was really international in scope, with craftsmen present from Europe and Hawaii as well as from all over the United States. The group visited in Reno, Salt Lake City, Wyoming, Chicago; Buffalo, Mr. Wishart's family home, Mrs. Wishart's old home in Pensylvania, New York and Washington, D. C. Returning by the southern route, they attended the expositions at Dallas and Fort Worth.

Hansen Mural Unveiled at Opening of Library

OPENING of the new library at Sunset school and unveiling of the school's new art treasure, a lunette-shaped mural by Armin Hansen, were two important events in which members of Sunset P-T. A. participated at its monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was held in the library, which had only just been completed. It is the former fourth grade room, made available for use as a library by the fitting up of two unfinished classrooms during the past year. Installation of open-faced shelves along the walls and the building of low tables for the children, together with the painting of walls, ceiling and furnishings a uniform, soothing light gray, was the simple method by which the classroom was transformed into a charming, informal reading and reference room. The room provides a perfect background for the exquisite Hansen mural, a symbolical creation in light, bright colors, which the artist named "The Span of Life".

The library shelves are already partially filled by dozens of books from the county library upon which the school depends for much supplementary reading material, and the storage and easy use of which have long presented a problem. Gift books are received from time to time, and will undoubtedly increase in number now that space is available for them.

Mrs. Hugh Dormody of the program committee was in charge of Tuesday's program. She read to the group of mothers, teachers and friends of the school the letter by which A. G. E. Hanke, president, accepted the painting on behalf of the board of trustees. She called upon Dick Williams, president of the student body, who is in an effectively simple little speech, accepted on behalf of the pupils. He then pulled the cord which swept back gray draperies and revealed the mural.

Mr. Hansen had prepared a poetically-worded explanation of the thought behind the painting, and this was read by Mrs. Ross C. Miller, after a brief resume of the "life and works" of the artist. The mural discloses a family group, together with various picturesque animals, domestic and wild, beneath the tree of life, which, appropriately for this region, is a composite of oak, pine and cypress, with other data which localizes the symbolic theme used by the painter.

In a brief business meeting which preceded the program, Mrs. William S. Frolli, the president, called upon Mrs. E. A. H. Watson to give a resume of proceedings of the board of directors. Mrs. Watson announced that the P-T. A. finds itself in such excellent financial shape that it is in a position "to do something really fine" for the school. To this end the board had decided to appropriate $100 to be used for the library; first, for cataloguing of its permanent collection and then to purchase additional books as needed. There are other needs to be met, she pointed out; new floor covering, as the old linoleum is badly worn; curtains, drapes and chairs. By unanimous vote the P-T. A. approved the action of the board.

It was reported that the P-T. A. now has 128 members, which includes a hundred per cent enrollment of the faculty.

Tea and a social hour concluded the meeting with Mrs. Orley Holm and Mrs. Dolores DeAmaral acting as hostess on behalf of the room mothers.

Community Church Dinner Thursday

Plans are being completed for the third annual Home-Coming Dinner of Carmel Community church, to be held Thursday evening, Oct. 22, at 6:30 in the parlors of the church. This will be an evening of entertainment and reminiscences. Courtland Arne, one of the charter members of the church, will give a brief history of the church and recall early incidents. Louis Slevin will speak on early days in Carmel and will bring pictures of interest to pioneers. There will also be musical numbers. Mrs. Irving Gansell will have charge of the dinner, and has appointed committees to help her. Mrs. Mable Turner, Victor Graham and O. W. Bardarson are taking reservations for the dinner.

These plans were officially announced at the monthly Church League meeting, Monday night, at which Mr. Bardarson presided. Rev. Homer S. Bodley also anounced, in his report, that the American Legion would be guests at the morning worship Nov. 8.

Young Democrats To Meet In Carmel Tonight

A meeting of all Young Democrats of the Monterey peninsula has been called by Dale Leidig for this evening at 8 o'clock, at the Carmel Roosevelt club headquarters on Ocean avenue. Young men and women between the ages of 21 and 30 are particularly urged to attend, and younger people, who will be reaching voting age within the next year or two will also be welcomed to discuss problems of citizenship.

Merchants Match Pennies to Decide Vacation Period

The mystery of why Tilly Polak's antique shop was closed all day Tuesday was solved Wednesday, when the story began percolating about the town. It seems that Miss Polak and Chuck Fuller of "Cabbages and Kings" matched pennies on this proposition: the winner got a holiday while the loser kept the winner's shop. Chuck won and took the day off. Miss Polak put the padlock on her own door and presided for the day at "Cabbages and Kings".

More Than 25,000 Attend County Fair

More than 25,000 persons attended the four-day Monterey County Fair in Monterey at the end of last week, it was estimated when the fair closed Sunday. The enterprise was judged a success from every standpoint, with good representative exhibits of local produce, both agricultural and industrial; pure-bred livestock and poultry; from the schools and other county departments; and good midway attractions to keep the crowds amused.

Dr. Leslie Learned to Give All Saints' Sermon

Dr. Leslie T. Learned will again deliver the sermon at All Saints' church morning service next Sunday. This will be Dr. Learned's last address here, as he and Mrs. Learned, who have been in Carmel since early summer, will leave about Nov. 1 to spend the winter in Pasadena.

Body Of Suicide Thought Sighted

Fishing from a boat off Point Lobos Thursday morning, Russell Comins of Carmel sighted a floating object which he believed to be the body of Mrs. Manuel Menares, missing since Monday. He signalled to searchers on shore, but was unable to reach the body. The shore party also saw the object, and declared their belief it was a human body. Efforts to recover it were made, but were unsuccessful up to a late hour Thursday.

Four men working out of the of the office of Constable Frank Oyer have been patrolling the beach south of Carmel since Tuesday, searching for the body of Mrs. Manuel Menares, 38-year-old New Monterey woman, believed to have committed suicide by drowning in Carmel Bay. Mrs. Menares has been employed at domestic service in various Carmel households during recent years, and was so employed prior to her disappearance Sunday. Notes of a personal nature to her husband, Manuel Menares, New Monterey fisherman, and to Mrs. Maude De Yoe, a former employer, indicated her intention to take her own life. She was known to have been a victim of severe recurring headaches, and this reason for desiring death was mentioned in the letter received by Mrs. De Yoe, written Sunday and mailed in Carmel.

According to the woman's husband, Mrs. Menares left home Sunday, to go to Carmel with friends. She was seen Sunday afternoon, walking on Carmel Point. Mr. Menares was not alarmed when she failed to return home Sunday night, believing she had stayed in Carmel.

Women Voters Show Eagerness to Learn About Measures on Ballot

THE eagerness of an intelligent group of women to vote intelligently on the state initiative and referendum proposition on the November ballot was manifested at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Monterey County League of Women Voters, held Wednesday at Pine Inn. Mrs. Doris Hanley Jones of Santa Monica, state chairman of the League's department of government and its operation, was present to discuss the measures on which the league has taken a stand, and to explain why the League has sponsored or rejected certain measures. Far from being content to let the matter rest with this discussion of only those measures closely aligned with the league's program of state and national work, 130 women lingered far beyond the alotted time, plying the speaker with questions about other measures.

At its convention in Santa Monica last week, the state league voted to endorse Nos. 14, 21 and 24; against Nos. 2, 7, 8, and 11. Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger, legislative chairman of the local league, after giving briefly the highlights of the state convention, announced the league's stand on these measures, then turned to Mrs. Jones for an explanation of the reasons.

No. 2, for repeal of the income tax, has been rejected by the League after study because it is contrary to the principle of a coordinated tax structure, and because, in the immediate emergency, the state cannot afford to lose the revenues to be derived from this tax. No. 7, which would blanket into office county and municipal employes, appointive and in some cases elective, is rejected because it does not set up personnal standards; would protect employes in job tenure without also protecting the public interest in efficient, economical service. It is not in line with the league's far-famed campaign for better public personnel and establishment of the "merit system."

No. 8 is opposed by the league because it gives to the legislature power to repeal the permanent registration law, and the league is devoted to permanent registration as both efficient and economical. No. 11 is opposed because it would freeze into the state constitution a teachers' tenure law regarded as less in the public interest than the present law, which is just beginning to work. With all its friendly attitude to education and to teachers, the league does not approve of the idea of setting up a separate board to act only in the interest of teachers' hold on jobs, rather than spreading similar provisions to all public servants. Most California teachers do not themselves favor the law.

No. 14, providing machinery by which cities and counties in a metropolitan area may consolidate their government, is favored as better than the present constitutional provision, in that it removes population restrictions. No. 21 is the particular pet of California club women, and is endorsed not only by the league, but by the California Federation of Women's clubs; the National Council of Jewish Women, San Francisco branch, the San Francisco Y. W. C. A. and the W. C. T. U. It is an act to make possible the trying out of the women's ten-year desire for a separate women's prison in which the emphasis could be placed upon occupational rehabilitation. "The women of California planned Tehachapi", they say. "They deserve a fair chance to show that their plan will work. The buildings are there, the inmates are there, the facilities for making Tehachapi a modern, self-supporting prison are there. The next step is to pass Prop. 21."

No. 24 is endorsed in order that counties and cities desiring to may change their charters without waste motion. It provides that electors shall first vote on the quesion, "Shall a board of freeholders be elected to draw up a new charter?" rather than just putting up candidates which a small minority may elect, with the possibility that the majority of voters may vote down the new charter once it is presented.

Discussed informally by Mrs. Jones from her obvious background of clear understanding of the way California's government functions, were the two liquor propositions, 3 and 9; Nos. 4, 18 and 22, which, contrary to their external appearance, are "not revenue measures" and should be carefully examined; and No. 10, freezing into the constitution the "earmark" on state gas tax funds for highway purposes, as now provided by general law.

"GOOD NEIGHBOR" POLICY

Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College: "An important issue before the people in the presidential election is that of our foreign policy. In a world that has become a neighborhood there is no place for a policy of isolation. The 'good neighbor' policy has not only been preached; it has also been practiced."

Theater to Hold Artists' Contest

Details of a contest in which Carmel artists will participate and patrons of the Carmel theater will be the judges were announced this week by William Loring, manager of the theater. The contest will begin on or about Nov. 1, and letters inviting the participation of all peninsula artists are to be sent out within a few days. Each artist may submit a picture, to be hung in the foyer throughout the month, or longer, that the contest is on. Ballots will be supplied on which theater patrons may designate their choice for first prize, a silver cup, to be suitably engraved. Other prizes will also be given for runners-up. As attendants are on hand at all times, the pictures will be assured good care, Manager Loring said.

Water Colors, Pastels and Drawings Feature Art Association Exhibit

By THELMA B. MILLER

GOOD arrangement adds much to the effectiveness of the current Carmel Artists' Association showing at the art gallery on Dolores. Limited to water colors, pastels and drawings, the higher keyed things are together on three walls, the drawings, with their emphasis on form and design, have the third wall to themselves, so that the impression of too much hetereogenity is avoided. A fine showing of small oils and watercolors in the little room to the left of the entrance should not be overlooked; there are some first-water gems among them, examples of the excellent smaller works of some of the best of the local artists.

The October shows opens numerically with a water color of Point Lobos by Burton Boundey; dark cypress against a pale sea, with rich tawney foreground tones. "On the Yellow Sea", by Free Dean, shows bright-hued sails reflected in clear, amberish water. Also reminiscent of Miss Dean's oriental tour last year is her "Gate in Peiping", clearly drawn, definite in coloring—soft rose and purple, green and yellow—with stylized street—types, a fine depth of shadow in the beautifully arched gateway with its ponderous pagoda top.

A mosaic of color are William Watts' two entries, distinguished by fine architectural detail and excellent figure-work "The Queen's Patio, Spain"; and "Entrance to the Souks"; water colors of highest ranking. A dainty bagatelle, unexpected from that painter of powerful marines, William Ritschel, is his lovely little "Piccolo Marino" a bit of Capri beach, a translucent green cove with skiffs drawn up on shining sands; a harmonious grouping of old-world structures against vivid blue sky, all opalescent in tone.

Clearly, startlingly outlined against the sky are the gnarled branches of Paul Whitman's "Cypress", a water color of excellent balance in the value of the fine, soft tones. Whitman also has a black and white drawing in the show, a beautifully balanced composition called "Early Morning Fishermen". Leslie B. Wulff has two entries, one a California landscape in autumnal colors, the other a charcoal portrait of an interesting Mexican type, which she calls "Memory Sketch."

Effectively pictorial use of shadows is one distinguishing feature of Alvin Beller's "Mexican Oxen", excellently drawn, fine in color; a span of oxen and a rude carreta, the driver in conversation with a pedestrian under a hot noon sun.

Margaret Levick's "Eucalyptus in Fog" shows color dripping from ghostly branches, a pretty curve of shore washed by blue-green waters, a white cottage pressed groundward by the towering trees. A study in textures as well as vital colors is Laura Maxwell's still-life, Iceland poppies in a bowl of European faience, quite different in feeling from the Canton bowl with its lustrous blue-green lining—highlights on old brass, the luscious depths of old scarlet velvet!

"At Anchor", by James Fitzgerald, is a black-and-white water color with a line of smoky green to denote a distant shore; a quiet glassy sea, bare spars against high-piled clouds. Lavish in color and texture, scrupulously drawn, are Henrietta Shore's succulents. Jennie Vennestrom Cannon's "Old Adobe" is lovingly drawn, the simple lines of the structure in its friendly, sheltered setting.

"Carmel Valley" by Charles Bradford Hudson is a particularly beautiful pastoral water color, with one blazing golden tree against the dull green of oaks, the wispy grays of undergrowth; the long shadows of evening and a mauve glow on the background hills. Armin Hansen shows the technique of the master etcher in his two drawings, "Monterey Pine" in black and white; "Pine Symphony" in red crayon.

Celia Seymour's "Little Brother" is an appealing child portrait. A crayon drawing by William Ritschel has a peculiar luminosity he often achieves in his European sketches; in this case a bent figure on a high two-wheeled cart and its plodding horse, vaguely reflected in shining, tide-washed sands. A face of haunting pathos has been portrayed by Charlotte Morgan; "Derelict", rendered with simplicity and economy of line, in charcoal.

A cluster of Florence rooftops, finely drawn, is by Myron Oliver. Roberta Balfour has an entry, "Spring, Carmel Valley", and two charming small pastels are by De Neale Morgan, "Garden Gate" and a street scene in an old, untouched California village. "Trees" is by Suzanne Hedger. A charming portrait of a very lovely lady is Marjorie Pegram's pastel of Marie Gordon, in black and white furs, with a nice background treatment of soft flame darkening into olive. Three conventional Egyptian designs, panels on silk, rich with gold and silver leaf, are by Dorothy Rambeau; a king, a queen, and a symbolical judgment hall.

On Solid Footing

No longer shall we have dusty supplies at Sunset school. A section of the inner supply room is being cemented by a group of seventh graders under the supervision of Mr. Calley. The flooring being covered is 28 feet by 9 feet. At present the cement is three inches thick. An inch of smooth cement will be added in a few days. The boys started early in the month of September. They spent a week reading about concrete mixing. They laid the foundation by hand which took some time. This week they employed a cement mixing machine.

The project will probably be finished within the next two weeks. This flooring will be welcomed by Bill Coffin, who will be in charge of the paper drive this year. It will settle the dust and make the place much healthier.

Thrilling Scenes Enacted at "Fire"

As the climax to a week devoted to Fire Prevention, Carmel volunteer fire department staged a big street show last Thursday night, in connection with its regular weekly fire drill. A blast on the siren, more prolonged than that which usually summons the boys to Thursday night drill, also brought a goodly number of citizens to the scene at Ocean and Dolores. Department equipment was brought into play; the engines screamed to a stop at the scene of the "fire", the Leidig grocery store. A thrilling "rescue" was taged, involving some pretty rough-handling for a dummy who represented the rescued man. Over a loud-speaker system installed in Stella's dry goods store, Chief Bob Leidig shouted orders to his men, and explained the use of the apparatus to the crowd, incidentally plugging a little fire prevention propaganda.

Two slight mishaps occurred, one of which might have been tragic. Only quick thinking on the part of Dave Machado, who was driving the big engine, averted mowing down a pedestrian who wandered into the street when the engine was nearly upon him. Jack Jordan, manning the various shiny gadgets on the truck, accidentally struck a handle which released a stream of water, with Dave Ball in direct line of fire. Dave himself, at the pistol range, never made a better bull's eye, but he said he would rather see than be one. He was thoroughly soaked, and other bystanders got a sprinkling. but the crowd regarded it as one of the better acts in the show.

Four Too Many for Front Seat; Costs $5

"I look with great disfavor to four persons sitting in the front seat of a car built for two", said Judge Ross Wednesday, when he fined Salvatore Buffo of Pacific Grove $5 for that offense.

Salvatore was arrested last week for driving through Carmel with three companions in the front seat of his car.

REACTIONS OF READERS

"MAD CLEAN THROUGH"

Editor The Pine Cone:

This letter is on the subject of The Innocent Bystander, and some of his unnecessary sufferings.

Some months ago you may recall certain residents of this district, disapproving of claims put forth by workers on the Canete ranch, expressed their dislike by means so violent that when the injured brought a damage suit and won their case, the County (which is all of us) had to pay them the tidy sum of $6000. And we surely could have used that money at the county hospital!

And now because there is again a dispute, which the employers refuse to arbitrate, the county, through its Sheriff, has as I see by the papers, already paid a bill of $2000 as only part of the cost, for such necessities as armbands, munitions and a whole floor of a hotel, also cots and 400 blankets for this new war.

The enemy fighting without armbands or guns or "shells" and also, I suspect many of them without blankets, have so far confined themselves to throwing stones and upsetting carts.

Now I wish the Growers and Shippers well (I doubt if housekeepers in the middle west do). They are very solidly organized. Also I wish the Unions well, for they surely have an ethical right to collective bargaining which the courts must in time acknowledge.

But as a taxpayer, I say, "A plague on both your houses" for why should we pay bills resulting from your mutual enmities?

And, Mr. Employer, there is no worse short sight than to deprive a community of its purchasing power.

Sheriff Abbott should be careful how he forces his electorate into expenses with which very few have sympathy; and perhaps when he next looks under the bed for Communists, he may find voters "mad clean through".

A TAXPAYER.

ALTERNATIVE IDEAS

Editor The Pine Cone:

In one of your editorials you say: "In time of war the nation, like the citizen confronted by a medical or surgical emergency, goes deeply into debt because there is no alternative."

As regards the citizen, yes. As regards the nation, may I steal from another of your editorials where you say, " . . . for Carmel, where a good many people have ideas that are well worth airing".

Why do you believe there is no alternative to a nation going into debt for either war or peace? "A good many people have ideas" to the contrary.

A good many people are beginning to see that it is impossible for a country to borrow itself out of debt and that the present financial setup will fail, due to the impossibility of the citizens being able to bear the tax burden for interest alone without any hope of paying off the principal sum.

But there is an idea "well worth airing" and that is the probability that before long governments will monetize the credit of their countries and pay their running expenses without borrowing or taxation. Think it over.

BERNARD ROWNTREE.

Politicians Take To Air for Arguments

Local radios will be alive with political speeches beginning tonight until the election as Republican candidates and their supporters take to the air to give their sides of the issues. Tonight Henry P. Russell will talk at 6:30 and tomorrow night Alonzo Baker will speak at 6:45. Following these speakers there will be talks all next week by Senator Ed Tickle and Joe Salome, as well as Mathew Beaton and J. Wellington Smith.

Council Urged to Draw Building Code In Keeping With Carmel Charm

AFTER taking up a few minor matters of business at its meeting Wednesday evening, the city council adjourned to reassemble immediately as a committee of the whole, to discuss further the projected building ordinance. Introduced into the proceedings was a letter from Hugh W. Comstock, builder, explaining why he is opposed to adopting the Pacific Universal Code, "unaltered and in its present form" though he is in favor of "reasonable regulation". Mr. Comstock advanced five reasons for his stand: He believes that construction costs would be increased by the higher standards set up under the code, to a point where construction of small homes would be retarded. "The charming little $2000 home which has made Carmel famous would be a thing of the past", he stated. He believes that the code would standardize architecture, design and methods of construction beyond the point of sophistication the people of Carmel as a whole wish; that newcomers would tend to build outside the corporate limits of Carmel; that use of new materials and methods of construction could not be incorporated without long delay, necessitated by the governing body set up under the code; a Los Angeles group not familiar with local factors, practices and desires; moreover, the expense of securing the board's approval for new practices is more than most people can afford; that enforcement of the code would be difficult and expensive, requiring the employment of a graduate licensed engineer;—Palo Alto, he said, found the cost of enforcing the code about $750 a month. In conclusion he stated his belief that the present zoning and fire ordinance and the state housing act provide adequate control to protect the health and safety of householders and to curb "fly-by-night jerry builders".

After protracted discussion of these points by Mr. Comstock, John Neikirk, C. J. Ryland and Robert Stanton, City Attorney Argyll Campbell urged the council to expedite matters by appointing a committee to include the individuals of conflicting points of view, who would present to the council features they feel should be embodied in a protective building code, at the same time eliminating features of the Universal Code which seem not applicable to Carmel. It was indicated at the close of the meeting that some such committee would be appointed.

During its formal session the council: passed to print an ordinance restricting to not more than 35 per cent the area of a building site which may be covered by residential structures; promised to investigate the request of Mrs. Thomas Bell for topping of a eucalyptus tree which obscures her view; referred to the insurance company the matter of the claim of the widow of August Englund for hospitalization and medical expense; granted permission to the Pistol club to maintain a bulletin board, "to project not more than 1½ inches over city property" on the outside wall of the Carmel garage; granted permission to Merle's Treasure Chest to maintain a projecting sign; granted to C. Doman permission to build a curb along his property on Casanova between Eighth and Ninth, conforming with retaining walls and curbs built by his neighbors to the north, with the result that all flood waters from that direction are diverted across his property.

Book Section to Meet Wednesday

The book section is the only one of the Woman's club groups which will hold a meeting next week. Miss Katherine Towle of Berkeley will be the speaker at the meeting at 10:30 next Wednesday morning, at Pine Inn. She will review George Santayana's monumental volume, "The Last Puritan", one of the most important works of fiction of 1936. Miss Towle has made a deep study of the volume, and has already discussed it before the Town and Gown Club in the north, in a brilliant and penetrating review. The guest speaker is a personal friend of Mrs. Harry S. Nye, president of the Woman's club, who was instrumental in securing her for the local program.

University Women Hear Doris H. Jones

Doris Hanley Jones was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Monterey peninsula branch of the American Association of University Women, held Wednesday evening at Normandy Inn. Mrs. Jones was here to address the luncheon meeting that noon of the League of Women Voters, of which she is a state chairman. As legislative chairman last year of AAUW, she was known to the university group as well, and they took advantage of the opportunity to have her talk to them about measures on the November ballot of which she has made a special study for the League of Women Voters.

Spending the week at Carmel Inn is Viola Cofer of Huntington Beach.

Posters representing the flags of America and a model garden were the entry of Troop 2. Troop 3 had collections of rocks and shells, and a shell basket. Posters, book-ends and a notebook were shown by Troop 4. Troop 5 showed a shell collection, scrap book, wild flower and bird books and a marionette. Troop 7 display trail signs mounted on a board. Community Chest Campaign Opens

Headquarters for the Carmel division of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest have been opened on Ocean avenue in the real estate office of Gladys Johnston in the court of the Theater of the Golden Bough.

Mrs. Robert Stanton, with the assistance of Mrs. Colden Whitman, is in charge of the Carmel district this year and reports that satisfactory progress is being made in building the soliciting organization.

An "advanced gifts" committee under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Colden Whitman, Mrs. Henry P. Russel land Dr. D. T. MacDougal, are now active in securing gifts in the larger brackets. Mrs. Allen Griffen heads the committee which is functioning in the Pebble Beach area.

The Carmel Girl Scouts and the school milk fund benefit directly from the Community Chest.

The campaign will get under way at a dinner meeting of the entire organization in the Forest Hill Hotel at 6:30 tonight, and will close on the evening of Oct. 23.

The telephone number at the local headquarters is Carmel 98.

Irene Dunn on Filmart New Bill

The Filmart will show Irene Dunne's ace picture, "Magnificent Obsession", for four night beginning tonight, with matinees tomorrow and Sunday. Since its showing in Carmel a few months ago this picture has been repeated in scores of theaters all over the state, with a greater drawing power than most films of newer vintage. Both Miss Dunne and Robert Taylor turn in splendid performances in one of the most telling and convincing stories seen on the screen in years.

Next week, beginning Tuesday, the Filmarte will present a charming student romance, with infectious music, titled "I Lost My Heart in Heidelberg". It was filmed in Germany, but is an English production both as to dialogue and songs, having been made entirely "on location" by a major British studio.

The Filmart announces a greatly improved newsreel service, with the most down-to-date news from both Universal and Fox Movietone.

A SPECIAL ATTRACTION

MY DEAR PATRONS:

The STATE THEATRE takes a great pride in announcing a Premier Showing of Joel McCrea and Jean Arthur in their newest and latest picture, Saturday Evening, October 17th in conjunction with our regular show.

The Premier will be shown once only at 8:45 P. M.

It is our earnest desire to please the Patrons at all times. It is very seldom that we are picked to hold Premier showings of big pictures. So I am appealing to our Patrons. If we have a successful turn-out on this Premier Showing, it will enable us to secure more Premiers from other Companies. This is done to get the reaction of the audience as to the Merits of the picture shown. So I am taking the liberty in asking the Patrons of the Peninsula to show the various picture Companies that Monterey knows how, and in their appreciation, will show it by their attendance.

Remember the time, 8:45; the place, the STATE THEATRE; the date Saturday Evening, October 17th. With no advance in prices.

PINE PITH PITCH, AND BARK

By ROSS C. MILLER

LETTUCE, that golden crop over which there has been so much trouble in our own county, plays an important part in preventing auto accidents at night.

It sounds incredible, yet—but it's true. You see lettuce is one of the green vegetables richest in vitamin A, which is also present in milk and butter. A deficiency of vitamin A results in a curious disease known as "hemeralopia".

Although you may have it without knowing so, "hemeralopia" so affects the eyes that one cannot distinguish persons or objects on a dimly lighted street or road at night. And a person so afflicted is of course a menace at the wheel of an auto after dark.

Ordinary eye tests don't reveal the condition. It takes a special instrument called a "photo meter". Unfortunately, few if any vehicle departments have such a device with which to test drivers having a record of night accidents. If you know any such, you might advise them to increase their intake of vitamin A.

It is entirely possible that the trouble in Salinas lettuce, causing a shortage, has contributed a night accident or so in New York. Which just goes to show how any one factor may have singularly remote effects in this complicated existence of ours.

WHAT has become of all the sunflowers that blossomed so profusely upon the coat lapels of Carmel's ardent Republicans a few weeks ago? It couldn't have been the Carmel sun that wilted them. Perhaps the findings of L. E. Claypool San Diego newspaperman, may have had something to do with it. He reported that in Russia the sunflower is an emblem of communism.

And Bernard Rowntree asks: "Do you suppose it jars the Republican party to have its radio broadcasts announced over the Red network?"

After a summer of rest, nine venerable gentlemen, black-robed and solemn, are back in the sanctum of the Supreme Court of the United States, brewing the broth of some momentous headlines of tomorrow.

There will be decisions during this eight-month session that will influence the charting of the whole future course of America's voyage through time on the good ship Constitution.

Now that the Court is again in session, renewed public concern over constitutionality is pertinent in California. At least one law before the people of this state in the coming election, if it passes, will quite possibly face a test in Court. Most opinions hold it is unconstitutional.

We refer to the much-discussed and intensely controversial Chain Store Tax, passed by the last legislature as the "Retail Store License" and now on the November ballot for referendum vote.

Most obvious of this law's unconstitutional features are its arbitrary exemptions. It says all chains must pay a $500 tax on each store over nine, except (and it enumerates) chain gas stations, chain theaters, chain restaurants and chain ice stores.

That is like a personal tax exempting everyone with blue eyes or brown hair, a tax which no court, of course, would uphold.

In any case, as the Supreme Court takes the spotlight again, we of California might do well to give constitutionality an extra thought. We'll be a veritable Supreme Court ourselves on Nov. 3.

Colonel Lindbergh and his family intend to remain in England "indefinitely". That was the word brought back the other day by Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, on her return from a visit abroad.

It was a news story printed over the nation. America's interest in "Lindy" has not flagged, and people are wondering how long "indefinitely" means.

Perhaps a happy combination of circumstances will bring the Lindberghs home sooner than that word might indicate. The tragedy of their kidnaped child, the raucous trial that followed, and later threats against their second son—these bitter memories fade farther into the past. Then too, since they left the G-men have pretty thoroughly wiped out what remained of the kidnaping racket in America. With each passing day that danger becomes more remote.

And although not a "happy" circumstance, there is always the imminent possibility that the powder keg of war will explode suddenly in Europe. Should that happen, the Colonel and his family, only too happy still to be American citizens, would doubtless hustle home in a hurry. England will be bombed and gassed often in the next war.

The very fact that there is no public resentment at his choice to live abroad, after the tragic kidnap experience, is in itself a tribute to Lindbergh. An even greater tribute is the fact that America will welcome the day when the Lindberghs come back to this country to stay.

Democratic State Chairman In Ringing Defense of New Deal Speaks at Sunset

CLIFFORD C. ANGLIM, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee and leader of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign in California, treated 300 members of the Carmel Roosevelt Club and their friends to some ringing, old-time campaign oratory in his speech at Sunset auditorium last Friday evening. Equally effective in defense of the New Deal and in aggressive attack on the opposition candidate, whom he described as having been "pulled out of a silk hat" to 'front" for his party, Mr. Anglim showed himself to be an effective and eloquent speaker in this, one of the first of many engagements which he has been called upon to fill during the remainder of the campaign.

The speaker disposed briefly of Candidate Landon as "carrying water on both shoulders"; promising eastern industrialists to "economize" and western farmers to continue the benefits of the New Deal, an attempt to "serve two masters" which will inevitably entail defeat, Mr. Anglim believes. He more vigorously attacked certain methods of the Republican party, as the attempt to smear the President with "Communism"; a policy so noxious that it has been editorially excorciated in the decenter sector of the Republican press, as, in California, some papers have editorially condemned the very advertisement they have carried of the so-called "Jeffersonian Democrats", linking the President with "red rioters", and charging that his policies have given tacit encouragement to strikers.

Answering this charge, Mr. Anglim cited statistics from the Coolidge regime, often regarded as the most prosperous and peaceful in U. S. history—some 4000 strikes and lockouts in the country at large, and over 180 in the state of California.

The speaker took an interesting position in regard to NRA, which he said was legislation formulated at the request and after suggestions advanced by business men and industrialists, welcomed by the public with a war-time frenzy of enthusiasm. It was only, he said, when the formerly friendly business men and industrialists found that the president was sincere in his determination to use NRA not only to advance their interests, but to curb certain oppressive features of modern business that they turned against him and encouraged the bringing of suits testing the constitutionality of the measure.

In condemnation of the attempts to brand as "Unamerican", the Rooseveltian concern with social welfare, Mr. Anglim asked, "Is it Un-American to guarantee bank savings deposits, to save homes and farms from foreclosure, to stop shedding crocodile tears over the plight of the farmer and do something about it; to open CCC camps to take jobless boys off the streets; to feed 20,000,000 families; to return 6,000,000 men to work?" These measures, after the people had appealed in vain to the "helpless, stupid government" of early depression days, were hailed as the highest form of Americanism, said the speaker, until "the industrial despots found in certain emergency measures a curb to powers which they had usurped as a matter of vested right; that the federal government was no longer their 'hired hand'. Then the deluge of personal hatred and villification, just as every other president in our history who has showed a personal concern for the welfare of the common man has been hated and villified by the forces of entrenched greed. Labor ALSO has a right to organize and bargain in selling its toil."

Mr. Anglim eloquently rang the changes on the theme introduced by Chairman Frederick R. Bechdolt in opening the meeting, when he analyzed the chief supporters of the president as consisting of "the poor, the advanced thinkers, and youth". Mr. Bechdolt, in his introductory talk, paid stirring tribute to the men and women assisting with the work of the campaign here. He told of the heartening support received in opening the headquarters on Dolores; the men who donated days of labor in cleaning and painting the room, the voluntary cash contributions of people of small means, and the eagerness with which other workers have offered their services as attendants at the headquarters. Mr. Bechdolt introduced Dale Leidig as one of the leaders of the Young Democrats on the peninsula, and Mr. Leidig spoke briefly on the challenge to youth in the present campaign, predicted that most "first voters" will be Roosevelt voters, because of the appeal to youth in the progressive principles of the president. He urged all young Democrats to come forward and unite in a permanent organization, to interest itself in national, state and local government along progressive lines.

Argyll Campbell, chairman of the Democratic Eighth Congressional District, who was instrumental in bringing Mr. Anglim to Carmel for his only visit to the Eighth District, introduced the speaker and told of the enthusiasm and unanimity with which California Democrats are united behind Mr. Anglim.

Turkey Shoot Scheduled for Carmel Pistol Range on Sunday, Nov. 8

At a well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Carmel Pistol club Tuesday night, O. N. Ford, outstanding shooting expert of the Del Monte Gun Club and a life member of the Carmel club, announced that he was presenting a fine trophy for the local pistol shooters to contend for. Five matches, starting in the near future, will be shot as preliminaries to select the five men who will fight it out in a final contest for this Ford trophy.

Much of the business of the meeting was taken up by plans for the second annual "Carmel Turkey Shoot" which will this year be held on Nov. 8 at the same location as last year, the Hatton Fields pistol range. Several very interesting possibilities for a new indoor range were discussed and arrangement made to see what could best be worked out.

Clinton Colburn, winner of the Hatton Fields trophy match, was presented with the beautiful Flanders cup which he will hold till next April when it will again be shot for.

After the business meeting a much appreciated feed was put on by the losing team of last Sunday's shoot. As the pot, for which the club members are now shooting, was not won last Sunday by either team it will be shot for again next Sunday. At this coming shoot the score required to win will be dropped five points, so the very interesting accumulation in the pot is likely to be divided among the members of the winning team next Sunday.

Jinx Follows W. A. Hart Through Traffic Lanes

Either the stars were crossed up against him, or the Old Man of the Mountain was riding with W. A. Hart last Thursday. Late in the afternoon Hart, while driving a car owned by Mrs. Constance Kitchin, was involved in an intersection collision with William Chappell, Hart driving east on Ninth, Chappell driving north on Dolores. Both cars were considerably damaged by the impact, and as a result of the accident charges of driving at a greater speed than reasonable or prudent was lodged against Hart. To this charge he pleaded guilty Monday morning before Judge Charles Ross in city court, and paid a $15 fine.

A few hours after the first accident Hart, in another car, was involved in an accident with Louie Davidson on Camino Del Monte. Davidson took full responsibility for the collision, and no charges were made.

Doctrine of Atonement Lesson for Scientists

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, October 18, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us" (Heb. 9:24). Other Bible citations will include: "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ . . . And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience; And patience, experience; and experience, hope: And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us" (Romans 5: 1, 3-5).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The atonement is a hard problem in theology, but its scientific explanation is, that suffering is an error of sinful sense which Truth destroys, and that eventually both sin and suffering will fall at the feet of everlasting Love" (p. 23).

Don Cossacks Here Tomorrow Night

THE Don Cossacks—the singing horsemen of the Steppes—will be here tomorrow evening in the Sunset School auditorium. After several seasons of concerts, "They remain the most sensationally striking singing ensemble New York has ever heard", according to the New York Evening Journal. And the New York Evening Times reads, "You will never believe me nor anyone else who tell you how wonderful the Don Cossacks are unless you happen to hear them yourself . . ."

With Sege Jaroff, the diminutive but all-commanding conductor facing his 36 giants, the Cossacks give a program tomorrow evening that will begin with the sacred chant of the church and end with riotous whistles, stampings, shouts, and frenzied dancing to the accompaniment of war shouts.

The numbers will include "The Responsary", Gretchaninoff; "Our Holy Lord", Tschaikowsky; "We Sing to Thee", Kastalsky; "O, Lord, I Cried to Thee", Old Church melody; "In Thy Kingdom", Pantschenko; "Terek and Kuban Cossack Songs", Jaroff; "Polovetzky Song", Borodin; "Two White Russian Songs", Jaroff; "Second Prelude of Rachmaninoff; "The Old Corporal", Gogotzky; "An Old Polka", Dobrowen; "Lullaby", Liadoff; "Don Songs", Jaroff.

Thousand Attend Cupertino Rally

Echoes of last Sunday's mass outing of 1000 Jeffersonian Democrats and Republicans are resounding in Cupertino in messages of confidence from national leaders who will support Alonzo L. Baker for Congress in the Eighth District.

Former President Herbert Hoover telegraphed that he "will vote for Mr. Baker."

Telegraphic encouragement from John Hamilton at national headquarters in Chicago came with "earnest greetings" from the Republican national chairman, Governor Landon and Colonel Knox. The message proclaimed "appreciation for the fine work which is being carried out in the Eighth District."

Last Sunday's gathering on the famous Christeson estate drew more than a thousand to hear S. F. B. Morse, chairman of the Northern California Landon-Knox campaign.

Alonzo Baker drew enthusiastic applause when he attacked the alleged "inefficient waste of public funds by the Farleyized New Deal." A strong blast at the Roosevelt administration was delivered by Chas. H. Spinks, Jeffersonian Democratic spokesman, who is one of the spearheads in the "Landon-Knox-and Baker" campaign.

Lieut.-Gov. George Hatfield and National Committeeman Earl Warren also sent messages.

Bob Smith went to San Francisco Wednesday on a business trip.

VOTERS:
You Can and Should Kill This Tax

Defeated once, the old Sales Tax on Food is back again in disguise . . . along with added taxes on other necessities of life

On your November ballot, it masquerades as a "Retail Store License"—Proposition #22.

But brought down to cases, it is a hidden sales tax on food and other necessities. A tax for the consumer to pay in higher prices.

It charges individual stores $1.00 a year for the right to do business. It taxes chain stores $500.00 for each store over nine. But it is you who will really pay

For, as the U. S. Federal Trade Commission states . . .

"If the ability to undersell, based on greater efficiency or on elimination of credit and delivery cost, is destroyed by taxation, it is the consuming public which will really pay the tax and not the chain."

Why? Because four out of five chain stores do not make enough profit to cover the tax.

For chain stores operate on a small profit. They eliminate middlemen's profits and unnecessary in-between expenses. The savings they make by operating efficiently are passed on to you in prices 10% below the average. The Harvard (University) School of Business Research states these to be the facts.

Thus chain stores must raise their prices or go out of business. If they raise prices, you will pay the tax.

If they go out of business, their competitors can raise prices even more—and you will pay.

Further, this tax is admittedly not for revenue purposes. It is a subsidy for wasteful business methods—at your expense.

So if you think that chain store competition helps to keep all prices in line with your pocketbook—if you are opposed to higher taxes on foods and other necessities—vote NO and keep prices low.

For no matter what name they give it . . . no matter how cleverly they disguise it . . . 22 is a tax on you—VOTE NO!

22 IS A TAX ON YOU—VOTE NO!

FUTILE PROTEST

Though the total will probably be smaller than in some previous presidential years, it appears that the "protest vote" is an item to be reckoned with in the coming election. Such was the state of the times four years ago that political commentators freely predicted a large and effective protest vote, mostly for Norman Thomas, as his was the largest of the minority groups, none of them influential enough to be dignified by the name of third party. Four years ago it was believed that there were many people dissatisfied with Candidate Hoover and his record as chief executive; uncertain of the fitness of Candidate Roosevelt to cope with major emergencies. Yet when the votes were counted the protest vote was unexpectedly small;—something like two millions, if we remember rightly.

We are hearing of the protest vote again this year as an implement to "impress" whichever party is victor. Yet in the last four years there has been the sharpest cleavage since the civil war in the basic policies and principles of the two parties. The choice is no longer the same dish flavored with either strawberry or vanilla. Neither major party is going to be impersšed by a few hundred thousand Lemke votes or a few million Thomas votes. But each will be impressed by enough millions of major party votes to render the election close. A close election may be regarded as a mandate of the Republicans toward liberalism, in the event they win; of the Democrats toward conservatism, if theirs is the victory. If the Republicans have a sweeping victory they will accept it, and quite rightly, as an indication that the country wants to go back to the "normalcy" of Harding and Coolidge, and they will be no more impressed by a sprinkling of Thomas votes than by the "protest" of the millions of defeated Democrats. In the event of another Democratic landslide, the interpretation of the administration would rightly be: The country wants a continuation of moderate and gradual reform, neither a nose-dive into the currency theories of Lemke or Coughlin, nor into the government ownership program of the Socialists.

The protest vote for old Bob La Follette in 1924 reached rather respectable proportions; some seven or eight millions; the largest vote ever cast as a warning to both major parties to keep their noses clean. There was less difference between Republicanism and Democracy, and in the two candidates, that year than at any time in our history. And how much effect did that protest at the likeness of Tweedledum to Tweedledee have on the Coolidge administration?

This is a year to forget the "protest" and to vote for the major party offering the program most nearly cut to the objectives of the protestants. If one is essentially a conservative with faith, not necessarily in Candidate Landon, but in the principles of Republicanism, he should help in registering a definite mandate to that effect. If one is essentially progressive, with belief in the basic principles of the New Deal, he should vote for President Roosevelt whether or not he endorses every item in the New Deal program. He should avoid the sticky entanglements of the minor parties, which in event of a close vote may merely throw the election to the stronger of the major parties and leave the protesters far out on a limb. A protest vote in 1936 is a wasted vote, and the protester may just as well stay at home and "boycott" the election for all the effect his vote will have upon the course of administration during the next four years.

THE CYPRESS TREE

The brave lone cypress on a rock
That foremost juts into the sea,
Has weathered storms of untold years,
And never has he turned to flee
From battering ram of wind and rain,
Or waters, surging like men's fears,
That spraying up, weep lonely tears.

But silent, strong and unafraid
He stands and lonely vigil keeps.
A God-born strength his seems to be,
With roots that reach unto the deeps.
Fathers, sons and sons of sons
Have passed, the while in majesty
He faces still the wind-swept sea.

Perhaps the strong may look thereon
And there a bond of kinship see,
For in the hearts of manly men
There ever grows a cypress tree.

—HELEN COOLIDGE.

DESERTED ROOMS

Never touch the door and lay it back
On the heavy air,
Suns grown moldy, moons turned black
Ghosts are there.

Clean the wicket, cull the ashes,
Touch a fresher stair,
Hands that shade this room with nothing
Deem it passing fair.

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

I HAVE an idea that I am going to become one of those Terrible Old Ladies who go about telling Home Truths. Each year I live I find it harder to Keep My Mouth Shut in controversial circumstances. Most bad impulses, if conscientiously curbed and corrected, dissipate without leaving a residue. So I have rationalized the situation I feel coming on with the first gray hairs, by deciding that perhaps Dowagers have a Mission. At least they can Get Away With It, and younger people cannot.

EVER since I was about five years old, and by far the youngest in a most outspoken family, I have been repressing Apt Comebacks, because, in the first place, of a vague suspicion that it was Not Quite Polite, and secondly I might be taking a hand in a game that was being Played By Experts, and I didn't qualify. As a compensation I devoted myself to the very pleasant game of Building Up shy people. I mean genuinely, painfully shy people, not the sort who make a romantic pose of it. For the matter of that practically everyone in the world is shy, even the Quite Blustery People, who over-compensate. I am shy myself, though I can no longer convince people of it. I have cultivated the Poker Face and the Air of Confidence until I believe in them myself. But I know very well how the really shy people feel, and I enjoy putting them in a Quiet Glow of faith in themselves and others.

BUT I feel it Coming On. There are certain Arrogant Ones—there always are,—who need Taking Down a Peg. It will be a few years yet, and then I'll start saying the things that for years I have Merely Thought. In very simple, but pointed language. Then, when I am white-haired and portly—or stringy, as the case may be—with the deep, authoritative voice of age, I'll no longer sit politely non-committal, when I hear some Pompous Ass devastate, with a single Well-Chosen Phrase, all the shaky defenses that some shy person has erected against the world. I'll put in my Two Cents' Worth.

I HOPE I can be salty, not merely sour, for the world is too full of Sour Old Hags as it is. They wear their lives on their faces; mean and crabbed and ugly. Salty Old Ladies manage to amuse people; Sour ones merely get themselves avoided.

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY?

It appears that some question has arisen as to the propriety of Carmel policemen and Carmel fire department equipment being used in responding to emergency calls outside the corporate limits of Carmel. As we are apt to have more of that sort of business in the future rather than less of it, it may become necessary for the city council to enunciate a definite policy in regard to it. We have a beautifully picturesque—and dangerous—stretch of coast south of us, where the surf fishing is fine and the mortality among the surf fishers is high. As more and more people discover the charms of this recreational area, we will have more frequent calls to salvage the drowned or drowning. When the new coast highway is finished, we will have many more hapless motorists to scoop up from the foot of the beautiful but dangerous cliffs. The Carmel-San Simeon highway will probably be not only one of the world's most notable scenic drives, but one of the state's most dangerous. But that will not deter people from using it. Just what are we to do about accidents at our front door? Are we to ignore them, or are we to organize effectively to succor the dead and injured?

That, it has quite properly been said, is a county problem, and not Carmel's at all. But injured men and women may bleed to death and bodies be lost in treacherous currents while the proper county official is, first, located, and then rushed to the scene. County departments are always understaffed in the interests of economy, and they have a pretty large territory to cover. Carmel is the incorporated city closest to the danger area.

In an emergency, none of us would hesitate to use our privately-owned vehicles or other equipment, or to take time from our business to save a life or to alleviate the suffering of an injured person. But when it comes to using the property which all of us own in common, such as the salvage wagon of the fire department, or taking the time of the men whom we all club together to pay, such as our police officers, a slightly different attitude seems to crystallize.

And the question may properly be raised, because there is always the chance that fire department equipment or Carmel policemen might be terribly needed at home just at the time they were absent on an errand of mercy.

The situation would be simplified somewhat if Peninsula Community Hospital had an ambulance of its own, and its equipment were otherwise amplified to answer emergency calls. That might involve the employment of an additional staff of huskies, because there is a considerable amount of brute strength as well as medical skill involved in effecting rescues from the base of 200-foot cliffs.

There is also the Red Cross disaster group, which may be called upon to function in individual emergencies, rather than holding itself in readiness for only such major catastrophies as earthquake, fire and flood affecting whole communities. It is also possible that the whole problem will be solved in time by the establishment of one of the Red Cross first aid emergency stations which has been mentioned as projected for the peninsula. It should be in or near Carmel, as this is the gate-way for the peninsula's immediate and potential danger-zone; the Carmel-San Simeon highway and the slippery rocks where the big fish bite.

Twelve of every 25 cents spent on cigarets goes for taxes, and the rest goes up in smoke.

LADIES! I am going to tell you why we should buy FROSTED FOODS when we can get fresh foods. BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS are not seasonal. They are not expensive. Moreover the flavor is absolutely sealed in by this new process of freezing. Of course we can get along without them—just as we could get along without electric lights. We use modern aids to housekeeping because we live in a day and age when advantages once available only to a few are enjoyed by all of us.

No improvement in living holds more advantages for us than the revolutionary development which brings us BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS.

BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS cost no more than many so-called "fresh" foods of equal quality, and in many cases actually cost less. Compare the cost—not of what we pay for at the store, but what actually gets to our table.

By adding BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS to our daily menus we will actually save money. Fruits, Vegetables, Meats and Poultry come in these handy little packages. Ladies, I move we serve BIRDS EYE FROSTED FOODS at regular intervals. . . Motion passed!

MR. and Mrs. James Thoburn returned Saturday after three weeks' interesting and exciting vacation trip. They went south first, then returned to their ranch in Sonoma county, where in the neighboring streams and lakes the fish were biting with their customary autumnal voracity—"Dolly Vardens as long as T-H-A-T!" They planned a quick jaunt into Canada, but reached Oregon just at the time the forest fires were so bad and for a few days found themselves unable to go forward or to return to California. Along the roadsides the families who had been burned out of their homes were camping; the sun was completely obscured by smoke for five days, and in one fugitive herd the Thoburns counted 56 deer. Due to the time lost there, they abandoned the Canadian trip and returned to the ranch for the last few days of their vacation.

Current Events Section of Woman's Club Hears Review of Institute

A REVIEW of last summer's institute of International Relations at Mills College and presentiments of next summer's institute were given at Wednesday morning's initial meeting of the current events section of Carmel Woman's Club, in the solarum of Pine Inn. Mrs. Lawrence M. Knox, the chairman, introduced her new co-chairman, Mrs. R. F. Lewis, and asked members of the section to write to her, P. O. Box 385, their suggestions of preferred study topics for this year.

Mrs. Vera Peck Millis and Miss Emily Pitkin, two of the local women who attended, gave their impressions of the last Institute, and the subject was amplified by Joseph Conard, executive secretary of the Institute.

"What our government does about tense situations in Europe, and elsewhere", he declared, "determines the future of every individual. Democracy can succeed only if the people understand the problems faced by their governments. The purposes of such gatherings as the Institute of International Relations is to bring back to individual communities the essence of the thought of experts in the field of international relationships." Rejecting as "too melodramatic" the thesis that another world war may bring about the "downfall of civilization", Mr. Conard said:

"Civilizations do not 'fall' as if destroyed by a bomb. It isn't that simple. They decay. The fact that students no longer go to the great German universities for work in the social sciences is a symptom of such decay. Hitler, not an evil genius in himself, is only a symptom of what war can do to a people. Wars come, not because people want them, but because they do not understand the underlying causes, and therefore, how to eradicate them."

Events Scheduled By Women Voters

Two study group meetings and the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors are on next week's program of the Monterey County League of Women Voters. Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the government and foreign policy group will hold its first session of the year, at Mission Inn, Monterey. Mrs. Russell Scott is chairman. Prof. K. M. Hagestad of Salinas will be the speaker, and the subject is "Civil War in Spain; New Problems of Neutrality".

The board meeting will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at Mission Inn, and at the same place, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, will be held the first meeting of Mrs. T. G. Emmons' government and its operation group. Mrs. Howard Walters will discuss the League's booklets on Monterey county, giving a resume of the department's study last season. Better personnel plans for state and county will be discussed by Mrs. Robert Stanton and Mrs. Dorothy Chapman will discuss the permanent registration law in California.

League "Sample Ballots" Available for Women

Mrs. Dorothy Green Chapman, registration and vote chairman of the Monterey County League of Women Voters, still has a few copies of the League's "sample ballot", which sell for 5c a piece, and are helpful to all voters in enumerating the measures to be voted upon at the November election, and pointing out the more obvious "bugs" in some of them. Groups or individuals who wish to study the measures well in advance, may obtain the ballots from Mrs. Chapman.
